CARLIN THE NOMINEE.

The Congressional primary in the sighth district was one of the warm of realities of contest of the confession death, according to the confession. Eighth district was one of the warm-death, ac this part of the State, and the voters. as well as the candidates, are no as well as the candidates, are no doubt more than glad that the fight is over. As we said from the start all of the gentlemen who presented themselves for the suffrage of the electors were men each of whom was in every way qualified to fill the seat of the late John F. Rixey. The fact that Mr. Carlin was chosen over Messrs. Gordon and Nicol proves one thing, and one thing only, and that is that he was the more popular because it is admitted by the called the word of the called found as a constitution of the called Tables of the called the word of the called Tables of the called the word of the called Tables of the called the word of the called Tables of the called the word of the called Tables of the called the word of the called Tables of the called the calle that is that he was the more popular, because it is admitted that there is little difference in the ability of the three men and each one of them have a splendid character. The nominee is the youngest of the candidates. and the activity of the nominee should prove an advantage to the district in that he will have the vigor the murder and energy to give attention to the work before him. Mr. Carlin has reason to feel proud of the victory he has won especially when won over such thouse in St. such men as Messrs Gordon and frightened and consult such men as Messrs. Gordon and Nicol, but he has even more reason such men as Messrs, Gordon and Nicol, but he has even more reason to feel elated over his personal tri-umph in his home city. The compli-ment conveyed by the vote he re-the child and strangled kim to d ment conveyed by ceived there should always prove to him "the dearest remembrance" of his triumph, and to his friends and threatening him with death if the triumph, and to his friends and construct took the body into a swamp, campies alike it should demonstrate construction of the relating two left through two seatchers. paign, not by his opponents. but by personal enemies, for no man, un- at others less his character was what it should be, could have, in our opinion, re-ceived such a vote in Alexandria on last Wednesday.

A few days ago the people of this section were grouning and mouning about the cold, wet weather, and it was predicted that the crops would be a failure; there would be no fruit, persimmons would not ripen, the hens would not lay, the juicy watermelon would not come to gladden the hearts of our friends. the lover. of the fruit; peaches would rot, pears would not ripen-indeed there was perfect wail of woe, and a very cara ogue of disasters was threatened but now all this is changed. "Is it hot enough for you?" is heard. The farmers and truckers are jubilant. and joy spreads all over the land. Remember that He who ruleth the world, and causes sunshine and storm, doeth all things well. He can not err: He knoweth what is best for the children of men. So trust Him.

FRANCE.

The so-called republic of France is in the midst of another quasi revo-lution. The fact is that a republi can form of government is not suita ble for the inhabitants of France. They are easily frenzied and driven to desperation, from which comes was on the verge of disruption about the Dreyfus affair: then again on the matter of seperation of church and state, and now it is on a question of taxation on wine, and when these short-lived rebellions occur, invariant Records for the Ninth Judicial Circuit. was on the verge of disruption about the Dreyfus affair: then again on the short-lived rebellions occur, invariably the troops, or some of them, mutiny and the police sides to a greater or lesser degree with the G. Walker, of Montross. The ceremony mob. The government is a blending of all elements. It is unstable and not suited to the mercurial tempera ment of its citizens. It has really lived longer now than we expected.
